

Steve Langston's profile

Steve Langston started working for Adams Aviation Supply Company in 1972. Adams Aviation is a privately owned aircraft parts distribution business that wholesales maintenance parts, avionics, instruments and pilot supplies worldwide, but primarily across Europe.

In 1980 Steve was invited to join the board of Directors as Sales Director. In 2005 he was promoted to Managing Director.

Steve has been actively involved in the European Aviation Suppliers Organisation (EASO) since its inception in 1996, as a board member since 2001, and as Managing Director since 2003.

Steve has two sons, the eldest is serving in the British Army Royal Engineers and the youngest works in the sales department of Adams Aviation. When time permits Steve's interests are classic cars and home improvements.
