

Adams Aviation is proud to support the inaugural EFLEVA Days 2017

EFLEVA Days (efleva-days.eu) is the first gathering from the European Federation of Light, Experimental & Vintage Aircraft and intends to bring aircraft builders and restorers together for a unique gathering. Aircraft from all over Europe will fly to Sanicole Airfield in Belgium for a weekend filled with aviation joy.

As well as some sponsorship for the Saturday evening dinner and donating a Garmin D2 Watch for the raffle, Adams Aviation will be exhibiting their depth and breadth of parts support, and the special LAA / EFFLEVA member discounts offered through their web site which is available to members all across Europe. They will be joined on their stand by Manuel Queiroz who, in 2006, flew solo around the world in a single engine aircraft - in record breaking time! - and documented this momentous achievement in a book and on his web site "Chasing The Morning Sun".

"He plans to fly the RV over and will be with us all weekend" said Robin Walsh, Adams' Sales and Market Development Manager, adding "he is simply the best kit-build avionics man I have ever come across - the Lord of Looms, the Wizard of Wire - and the perfect person to talk to about the G3X/G5 Garmin avionics which will be the focus of our display."

EFLEVA was founded 10 years ago and stands for European Federation of Light, Experimental and Vintage Aircraft. Its goal is to promote and represent the interests of builders and restorers of aircraft and their operators. Adams Aviation, with a long history of supporting the UK LAA and its members, wholeheartedly supports this effort to bring together the groups representing Permit / Experimental / Sport / Homebuilt / Vintage and other "legitimately self-maintained" aircraft, so they can better engage with our regulators at all levels. "Flying is first and foremost about people moving about and regularizing the approach to that at this end of the GA market can help enormously" said Stephen Gosling, Adams' CEO. "That's not just a philosophical aspiration for me. With or without the uncertainty of Brexit the regulatory burden will always be increasing. Working together across the whole continent can honestly improve that."

EFLEVA Days takes places at Sanicole Airfield in Belgium on June 30th, July 1st and July 2nd.
